

Legal Research Methods in a Modern World: A Coursebook

J. Paul Lomio, Henrik Spang-Hanssen & George D. Wilson

3. edition 2011 – 486 pages, p/b
DJØF Publishing – ISBN 978-87-574-2467-6
€41 / £35 / $55 / 320 DKK (excl. VAT)

In these times it is no longer sufficient to look for national solutions to global challenges. This is also true for lawyers, who need to be educated more broadly today if they are to serve their clients and society as well. In order to do this it is becoming essential for lawyers to know how to find, understand and compare applicable foreign and international laws.

This book introduces European legal research methods to Americans and American legal research methods to Europeans and thus makes it possible for them to speak the same language of the law. It is a paramount coursebook on legal research which breaks the oceanic divide. Furthermore, it is the first legal research guide to consider the internationalization and globalization in both the new law school curriculums and the changing practice of law.

Legal Research Methods in a Modern World: A Coursebook is a revised and expanded edition of Legal Research Methods in the U.S. and Europe, 2. edition. The title of this third edition has been changed to reflect the broader scope of the book due to the inclusion of chapters on China, Russia, England, and on researching foreign law generally. It is a coursebook intended for several alternative courses on legal research. As for American legal research, the book explains the impacts and effects of the major changes and developments that have occurred very recently, including the introduction of Bloomberg Law, WestlawNext and the revolutionary Law.gov movement.

Denmark: Djøf Forlag: Tel: +45 3919 5500 - Email: forlag@djoef.dk - www.djoef-forlag.dk/vare/8757424675

In North America: International Specialized Book Services: Tel: +1 800 944 6190 - Email: orders@isbs.com - www.isbs.com or www.amazon.com

In all other countries: Marston Book Services: Tel: +44 (0)1235 465521 - Email: trade.orders@marston.co.uk

About the authors

J. Paul Lomio is Library Director and Lecturer in Law at Stanford Law School. He holds both a U.S. Juris Doctor degree and an LL.M. degree in Law and Marine Affairs as well as a Masters of Library and Information Science. He was admitted to the Washington State Bar Association, teaches Advanced Legal Research, and is a frequent contributor to the Legal Research Plus blog.

Henrik Spang-Hanssen is a Danish Supreme Court Attorney-at-law, Lecturer in Law, and senior researcher, including five years in the United States. He holds masters degrees in law from Copenhagen University in Denmark and Santa Clara University in California and is regarded by many as an expert on the intersection of public international law and public international computer networks.

George D. Wilson is Reference Librarian at Stanford Law School. He holds a U.S. Juris Doctor degree (from Georgetown University Law Center) as well as a Masters of Library and Information Science degree (from San Jose State University). He is a member of bars of California, Colorado, the District of Columbia and Maryland.

Contents

Preface
About the Authors
Table of Contents

Part I

Chapter 1 – Introduction
Chapter 2 – Legal Families
Chapter 3 – Requirements for Studying Foreign Law
Chapter 4 – Comparative Law Methods

Part II

Chapter 5 – Methods in the U.S. – Common Law
Chapter 6 – United Kingdom Resources – Common Law

Part III

Chapter 7 – Methods in Europe – Civil Law
Chapter 8 – Russian Resources – Civil Law
Chapter 9 – European Union Resources – Civil Law

Part IV

Chapter 10 – China Resources – Law in the Far East

Part V

Chapter 11 – Public International Law Resources
Chapter 12 – International Organizations' Resources

Appendix